0928400505 Diesel Pump Metering Unit Technical File

Diesel pump metering unit is an important part of diesel pumps. Its main function is to deliver the diesel in the fuel tank to the combustion chamber of the engine with pressure. The working principle of the plunger is to compress the diesel in the fuel tank through the reciprocating motion of the piston to form high pressure, and then deliver the diesel to the engine through the transfer pipe. In the diesel pump, the plunger works together with the pump cover, spring and other components to ensure the stable supply of diesel and pressure control.
